LIVE IN ISTANBUL, TURKEY

There is something keenly energetic about a 'live' album. And when bluesman John Lee Hooker, Jr. shouts "Istanbul, are you ready for the blues?" at the onset of his newly released CD, "Live in Istanbul, Turkey" you can feel the electricity in the stadium. "Live in Istanbul, Turkey" on Hooker, Jr.'s own Steppin' Stone Records and the European label Jazzhaus Records, proves to be yet another notch in the Grammy nominated artist's belt. Hooker explodes with fiery intensity as he sets the audience on fire at the Efes Pilsen Blues Festival, proving that the blues are indeed an international language understood around the world.

"Live in Istanbul, Turkey" showcases the son of the late iconic blues legend, John Lee Hooker, not only performing classics from his previously released albums, but also introducing three new songs as well. In addition, as the first blues artist to tap hip hop's reach with animated music videos, the CD boasts yet another addition to this legacy. The bonus video "Extramartial Affairs," co-conceived and co-produced by Frenchman Laurent Mercier at the Callicore Animation Studios in Paris, captures, in vivid black and white, the torrid escapades of a background musician's illicit affair with a mistress that Hooker Jr. calls "tales of the road."

"Extramartial Affair" is the third in a series of blues animations from Hooker, Jr. and Mercier.

"Live in Istanbul, Turkey" was produced by John Lee Hooker Jr. and Frank 'Tebo' Thibeaux.
